

Confucius Report

The Confucius Report was compiled by volunteers in the Mountain States who were concerned about what they were hearing regarding Chinese classroom instruction in American schools through the Confucius Institutes. What they discovered shocked {mosimage them. They found that the Chinese government has been bankrolling classes in public schools and setting up university programs that are promoting Chinese propaganda from elementary school through university graduation. Parents had no idea }what was going on how could they, since they do not speak Chinese?

This report, revised in 2010, will fill you in on details about the Confucius Institutes and help you explain to your educators and legislators why they may be free, but the price is too high.
